UNPROFITABLE STRIKES.

The more strikes take place the more bold does the fact become that strikes are unprofitable business. It is an excellent rule among enterprising and careful business men to take an account of stock once in a year. They do this to know how they stand in their business and whether or not business is paying. If the hundreds of thousands of employees who have gone voluntarily, or been coerced by their aggressive companions, into labor strikes during the year 1886 were to adopt the same sensible method the results would astonish them. Bradstreet's has recently published a statement showing that not less than 450,000 employees were engaged in strikes and lock-outs in this country during the year just closed, the suspensions varying in length from a few days to the entire year. To people who have been led to suppose that periods of business depression were most prolific in strikes these figures will seem surprising. But it must be remembered that in no period in the country's history has the organization of labor proceeded at so rapid a rate as during the past year. Naturally the members of the new labor organizations wanted to try conclusions with somebody for the purpose of determining whether a labor millennium could be inaugurated by labor combination. In consequence while work was more plentiful and wages better than for several years past, there were strikes for good cause and strikes without cause, strikes for higher wages and strikes for shorter hours, strikes to compel the reinstatement of dismissed workmen and strikes to secure the discharge of non-union workmen—in short the roll of strikes never was so great in any one year of the country's history.

But what has this exceptional period of labor suspensions brought to those engaged in them? Judged by the cold figures, very little but loss and failure. An analysis of the Bradstreet tables shows that 334,400 employees were engaged in fifty-nine great strikes or suspensions, lasting one week or more, the average idleness of the entire number being four weeks or upwards. Assuming that each idle laborer could have earned nine dollars per week, the total loss in wages to this vast army of employees was thirteen and a half millions of dollars. But what was gained when so much was lost? Thirty-seven out of the fifty-nine strikes enumerated proved total failures, the men going back to work at the same wages and under precisely the same conditions against which they had struck. The success of the day strikes for short hours proved only temporary, the ten hour system having been generally restored within six months. This leaves the number of compromised and successful strikes so small that it is entirely safe to say that all the advance in wages secured by the year by the entire 374,400 amount to less than one of the more than thirteen millions of dollars lost by their voluntary idleness.

It is doubtless true that the unsuccessful strikers can rightfully lay claim to the only consolation of the old confederate soldier who declared that if he was defeated he had killed as many of the Yankees as they had killed of him. The loss to employers by strikes and lock outs has been in all probability as great in dollars and cents as that of the strikers workmen. Relatively, however, it has been much less, as the employers could stand the loss much better than the workmen. But, supposing the loss on each side to have been equal, was it worth while for labor to bite its own nose off merely to spite capital's face? That seems to have been about all the immense strikes of the year amounted to on the part of those engaging in them, and the only logical conclusion from these figures is that some method less costly should be devised for settling labor disputes than the strike. Another might prove better—it could certainly prove no worse.

THE NEXT SENATE.

Nearly all the states have now elected United States senators. The republicans have twenty-six hold-over senators, and the democrats twenty-five. Of the new senators elected, says the Chicago Journal, thirteen are republicans and seven are democrats. The democrats will probably elect their candidates in Florida, Texas, and West Virginia. Should this be the case they would have thirty-five members in the next senate, and the republicans thirty-nine, including Riddleberger, of Virginia, who usually votes with the republicans. This leaves out of the calculation New Jersey and Indiana, where it is impossible to foresee what will be the result. Should there be contests in these states, which seems not improbable, the senate, exclusive of the hold-overs in each case, would be called upon to decide as to the merits of the contestants. The action of the democrats in the Indiana legislature has been of a character to throw great discredit, to say the least, on the credentials of any person they might send to the senate, while the conduct of that party in New Jersey has been little if any better. Should the republicans ultimately gain one of these seats, the next senate would stand 40 republicans to 36 democrats, counting Riddleberger with the former. But should the democrats get both the Indiana and the New Jersey seats, they would still have but 37 members to the republicans 39. In this event, if Mr. Riddleberger should vote with the democrats on any question the senate would be tied.

The nomination of J. C. Matthews, for register of deeds of the District of Columbia, has been rejected by the senate, the voting standing 17 to 31, and of the number voting for the confirmation only three were republicans. The democrats take this opportunity of expressing their contempt for the republicans who voted against Matthews, and charge that the republicans defeated him because he is colored. The republican senators voted against Matthews, not because he is colored, but because they want the president to stand by the declarations in the national platform. In 1881 they declared that the officers of the territories and of the District of Columbia should be residents of those places, and the president endorsed the declaration. But the first thing he did when he got an opportunity, was to send the democratic platform in nominating non-residents for federal offices. The republicans had no prejudices against Matthews on account of color. They simply wanted the president to be consistent.

Father Decker, the pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic church, at Milwaukee, has asked Governor Rusk to pardon Marion McCullough and William Paetz, two youths, who nearly three years ago were convicted of having shot and robbed August Grothe, a Milwaukee street-car driver. The priest states that the guilty man acknowledged the crime to him while at confession, and he must not make his name public. The assault on Grothe was made one dark night in true highwayman style. Grothe refused to surrender his change box, and was shot, it was supposed, fatally. At sight of the bleeding boy, Mrs. Grothe became a raving maniac, and is now confined in an asylum. At the trial the detectives testified that the boys confessed their part in the attack and robbery. Paetz and McCullough swore that the confession was forced from them; that for ten days they were beaten, starved, hung up by the thumbs and otherwise ill treated, and that they confessed to escape starvation. Twenty witnesses testified to an alibi, but they were convicted.

General Pleasanton says that during his career he has been in 105 different engagements and has never been wounded. At Brandy Station a certain confederate sharp-shooter was ordered to pick him off. He got within 400 yards of the general, took careful aim and shot a member of the staff on the left. He fired again and killed a man on the right. Then he crawled up nearer and waited till Pleasanton was perfectly stationary. He fired and again missed his target. The sharp-shooter then gave up in despair, declaring that he had never before failed to hit after three shots. A few days ago he sent his compliments to General Pleasanton.

Great excitement prevails throughout Ohio, South America, at the appearance of cholera on its borders. Strict quarantine was forced against vessels coming from suspected ports, and the passes on the Argentine frontier were closed, but the disease, it appears, has surmounted barriers, and reached the Pacific slope.

Figures from the bureau of statistics at Washington show that the value of exports from the United States for the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1886, were $885,678,000; for 1885, $831,919,000. The total value for imports for 1886 were $903,417,000; for 1885, $857,998,000.

General W. T. Sherman boasts that he has not shaved his face since he was a lieutenant of artillery in territorial California. Then he shaved, not because he wanted to but because he was compelled to in obedience to a rule of the service that "no soldier could wear a mustache."

The governor of Ohio nominated ex-President R. B. Hayes to be a trustee of the state university for seven years, and the state senate confirmed the nomination.

The circulation of the standard dollar is steadily decreasing. The number outstanding is 58,634,237. A Good Thing Come to Stay. America is a great country for inventions and discoveries. Thousands upon thousands of new things come to light every year, thousands upon thousands of them disappear to be seen and heard of no more. Some of the new discoveries come to stay, because they are genuine and meet a long-felt want. Such a thing is ALCOCK'S PAIN EXPELLER, which after a fair trial of twenty-five years is conceded to be the best external remedy known by the medical fraternity and the general public. In a quarter of a century it has never failed in doing all that was claimed for it. ALCOCK'S PAIN EXPELLER has reached the place they now occupy because they have been proved to be good, safe, sure and speedy in doing their work. Ask your druggist for ALCOCK'S, and be sure to accept no other.

ILLUSTRATING A DEAD-LOCK.

On a Couple of Howling Knights of Labor. A Howling Knight of Labor. A howling incident occurred in the hall of the house Wednesday afternoon. Two prominent knights of Labor entered the gallery to witness the balloting in joint convention, and entering into conversation, the crowd dispersed and they found the door leading from the gallery locked. It was twenty feet to the floor of the hall and no way of reaching it from the gallery, and the knights were compelled to remain till the doorkeeper returned at 2:30 with a crowd below jeering at them and asking them how they liked a dead-lock. The senatorial dead-lock continues without any prospect of change and the proceedings have become monotonous and uninteresting through repetition. With two members absent the vote Wednesday stood: Turpie, 7; Harrison, 7; Allen 4.

A bill to refund the state debt to the common school fund was introduced in the legislature. It provides for the issue of $4,000,000 in bonds at 35 per cent. interest payable semi-annually, and running twenty years.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has been before the public for years, and is pronounced by the outside superior to all other remedies for the cure of coughs, colds, influenza, and all pulmonary complaints.

AN UNKNOWN CORPSE.

PACKED IN A TRUNK AND SHIPPED TO BALTIMORE.

The Body Missing Both Legs and One Arm—Clues to Its Identity—A Sixteen-Year-Old Wife Shoots Her Husband and a Cowardly Whelp Kills a Girl—Assorted Depravities.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 27.—A ghastly discovery was made Wednesday afternoon at the principal office of the Adams Express company in this city. The "find" was the result of a sickening odor being emitted from a trunk, which, when broken open, was found to contain the dead body of a man. Superintendent James A. Sauter, of the express company, hastened to police headquarters and laid the case before Chief Frye. Mr. Sauter stated that the marks on the trunk and way-bill showed it had been shipped from New York city on Saturday night last. It reached Calvert station in this city Sunday morning, and lay at the station until Monday morning, when it was brought to the Baltimore street office. The trunk was consigned to "John A. Wilson, Baltimore, Md. To be called for."

It was in the collar Tuesday. Wednesday morning the parties employed in the cellar detected a disagreeable odor, which, as the door was open, became unbearable. The porters had been in the habit of feeding poison to the large family of rodents which infested the cellar, and attributed the smell to rats. Mr. Sauter's attention was finally called to it, and he concluded that the smell came from the trunk. He ordered the trunk to be broken open, and was horrified to find the dead body of a man. Marshal Frye sent the patrol wagon to the Adams express office and had the trunk and its ghastly contents removed to the back yard of the Central station. Coroner Hill was sent for and when he arrived the body was taken from the trunk. It was found that the head, left arm and both legs were missing. The right arm was clutched up under the back. The left arm had been cut off at the shoulder and the legs close to the body. The body was thus mutilated, it is supposed, in order to get it in the trunk. A coat was thrown over the corpse. It was a cutaway, made of mixed gray and black diagonal material. The coat collar was saturated with blood. Four business cards were found in the pockets, inscribed as follows: "Henry Seigel, meat market, 305 Third street, near Third street, Brooklyn, E. D." On the bottom of the shirt front was the name "C. Knottfield." Further examination of the marks on the trunk shows that it was delivered to the Adams express in New York by the Western Express company. The body is evidently that of a young man. It is now at the city hospital and will be kept as long as possible, pending an investigation by the New York and Brooklyn police, who have been notified. The police here think that "John A. Wilson," to whom the trunk was addressed, is an alias or a myth.

Schwartz, the Alleged Train Robber.

Moravia, Ill., Jan. 27.—Henry Schwartz, who was arrested at Chicago Tuesday on the charge of implication in the murder of Kellogg Nichols, the express messenger on the Rock Island railway who was killed in the train robbery last year, has arrived here. He does not express any fear of the result of his trial. The points against him are that he was head brakeman of the train Nichols was killed on; that there was a fierce struggle between Nichols and the robber and several blows were struck, which Schwartz must have heard; that a satchel which was part of the plunder was found in a closet of a car Schwartz was in charge of and he can not account for it, and that he was very flush of money just after the robbery. Schwartz was sent to jail Wednesday by the justice.

A Constable Shoots a Woman.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 27.—Mrs. Amelia Carr, of Puller's Fork, a mining settlement near Wyoming, known as "Hells Delight," was mortally wounded by Constable Lake Tuesday night while she was attempting to arrest Patrick Flannigan. The woman assaulted the officer with an ax, and in order to defend himself from her assaults, he fired two one ball passing through her ear, and the other taking effect in her abdomen, and causing a wound from which she will almost certainly die.

Should Be Sure to Hang This Coward.

SPRINGFIELD, Ky., Jan. 27.—Tuesday afternoon Lud Corrish went to the residence of John Green, a respectable farmer living near Sharpsville, and after a few words, shot and killed the girl, who was the daughter of the farmer. Corrish attempted to save her daughter, and was slightly wounded. Corrish bears a bad reputation, and it is said he has been involved in several affairs. He was put under arrest and jailed. A lynching is feared.

The Wife Does the Shooting.

ELMHURST, N. Y., Jan. 27.—A special to The Gazette from Elmhurst, Pa., says: In a quarrel Wednesday morning Jake Vanvoort, a farmer living a mile below Stokesdale Junction, on the Pine Creek railroad, was shot and instantly killed by his 15-year-old wife.

Fatheringham to Get His Witnesses.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 27.—A writ of habeas corpus was issued by Judge Normale W. Hodge yesterday, directing Warden Wm. H. Harned, of the penitentiary, to permit Wittmore and Haight, the train robbers, to be brought to this city to testify in the trial of Messenger Forchering here.

The Anarchist Idea Illustrated.

BERNE, Jan. 27.—The recent great fire at Yverdon has been traced to anarchists, who also burned many other buildings, with the view of furnishing work for unemployed builders.

A Girl's Miraculous Escape.

WABASH, Ind., Jan. 27.—A wonderful escape from death took place near this city Wednesday night. A local freight of the Wabash road, while backing up in the yards, struck a 13-year-old girl. She was carried under the train, which could not be stopped until fifteen cars had passed over her body, which finally lodged in the ash-pan of the engine. The girl was pulled out, and, beyond a few slight bruises, was found no hurt.

Mrs. Langtry's Dilemma.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 27.—When Mrs. Langtry was asked Wednesday morning if there was any truth in the report that her husband was dead, she replied: "I really don't know. I've cabled home to ascertain, but the answer came this morning saying that he could not be found, as he was wandering about under assumed names in the north of Wales; so I really don't know whether I'm a widow or not."

English Artisans Must Be Bled Off.

London, Jan. 27.—The Duke of Argyll writes The Standard, contending that the thousands of English artisans pay double and treble as much as the Irish for their homes alone, the Irish having the advantage of produce enough to feed their families half the year.

An End to Bone Aching.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. I have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and the sore is now healed and saved, and my leg is now sound and strong."

WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE.

The Dens at Hurley Come to be Suppressed.

Woman Suffrage Victorious—The School Tax.

Perfection of Game.

(Special to the Gazette.) MADISON, Wis., 27.—Both houses were in session to-day and the principal business done was as follows:

IN THE SENATE. A bill was introduced to appropriate $18,000 to John Trumbull and Mr. Littlejohn for the construction of certain parts of buildings at the state university in addition to the original plan, also a bill to prevent crime and abolish houses of ill fame. This is aimed at dens in the northern part of the state. Another bill introduced was to prevent the killing of game during the spring months.

IN THE ASSEMBLY. The bill to repeal the woman suffrage law of 1885 was killed.

A bill was introduced prohibiting that the one mill school tax shall be apportioned to counties in proportion to what each one pays.

Governor Rusk to-day appointed R. H. Swift, of Rice Lake, state timber agent.

Barjos Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us a grandeur of mountains, plains and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up, disappointed, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Constipation, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Dr. Seth Arnold's Soothing and Quiet Laxative for children. Recommended by mothers and nurses 25c.

LOOKING FOR A GREAT FLOOD.

An Ice Gorge Sixty Miles Long—The Lowlands Submerged.

FRISTON, Pa., Jan. 27.—The river situation remains unchanged on the north branch, excepting a noticeable rise in the water. The ice blockade is solid, extending now to a point between Turkanaock and Towanda, making a great ice nearly sixty miles long, and which must soon receive an immense water pressure, which will make this frother equal to, if not more disastrous, the memorable flood of 1865. All the lowlands along the branch are inundated, and many families are obliged to vacate their homes, which are now surrounded with water and ice. The Lehigh Valley shops at Coopers, above here, are submerged, and their iron bridge at that point is in portions piled with ice. Explosives will probably be employed to remove the ice from the structure. The officials of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railway company are taking extra precautions for the safety of their bridge at Fruston Junction.

The New Jersey Complication.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 27.—The state senate has not yet organized, but the Democrats of the legislature, in spite of the fact that no one consents to give an opinion so far, concede the legality of the procedure, are meeting every day in alleged joint convention and voting for senator. Governor Abbott is the caucus nominee, and the Democratic senators and representatives, to the number of 23, met Wednesday and took a vote, Abbott receiving 23 of the 36 present. It takes 14 votes to make a quorum in the joint convention and the Republicans and two Democrats—Speaker Baird and Senator Charles—refuse to go into the convention. There are also doubts expressed that the United States senate would consider the election valid—without organization in the senate—even if Baird and Charles should go into the joint convention. Live time are looked next week, something interesting will probably occur until then.

Earnings of the Lake Erie & Western.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The net earnings of the New York, Lake Erie & Western railroad company for the month of December, 1886, were $539,740.69, an increase of $44,380.61 over December, 1885. From October to December inclusive, the net earnings were $1,974,918.53, an increase of $179,435.16 over the corresponding period in 1885. These figures were calculated on a basis which includes 68 per cent. of the earnings and working expenses of the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio railroad. Excluding this percentage, the New York, Lake Erie & Western road shows an increase in net earnings for December, 1886, of $23,270.00, and for the last quarter of 1886 a like increase of $110,765.40.

Illinois Legislative Notes.

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 27.—The state senate Wednesday adopted a resolution, requesting Illinois members of congress to urge the passage of the resolution proposing the election of United States senators by the people. A bill was introduced providing for a state board of arbitration to settle differences between employer and employee. It provides for a commission of three to be appointed by the governor every two years. In the house a bill was introduced providing for a commission to investigate the liquor question, to consist of five members, three of whom shall be nominated by the other two without drinking habits, one of whom shall be interested in the liquor business.
